A selective proteolytic enzyme of Aspergillus niger has been found to produce selective cleavage of methionine from the N-terminal side. The amino acid residue at the cleavage site was aspartic acid. Both the amino-acid sequence and the amino acid composition of the N-terminal fragment (15 residues) of the enzyme has been determined. It is concluded that the enzyme has a preference for methionine over cysteine.Q: Cannot locate ReactJS server if deployed locally When I run the application locally the react-scripts node returns an error: ReferenceError: Can't find variable: process This is what I'm doing: yarn start yarn build yarn start:ssr The application is properly deployed (but not as a development server) when running the last command. The error happens when accessing localhost:3000 (or 127.0.0.1:3000). A: On Windows, as per the comments, it's a problem with the *.cmd files. Try yarn start:ssr --display-error-details To see the error. If you are using the --silent option, you can force the command to return an exit code of 0 by adding: "--exit-code": 0 to the command line.
